▶ YOUR HOME Towners agree with Billy Graham when he said that the danger of war is greater now "than at any other time in the past 10 years." President Eisenhower should tell the American people exactly how we stand, and it would be most unfortunate if Eisenhower should say anything in his forthcoming talks that would give the American people a "false sense of security.'

▶ VERNON WALKER, one of the wheels in the McKinney Quarterback Club, has asked the Cotton Belt Railroad to run a special train to Mt. Pleasant when McKinney High meets that fine East Texas team in a conference game, November 15th. Seems that the Cotton Belt can't make the necessary arrangements but in Your Home Towners way of thinking would be good "business and good public relations for the Cotton Belt to see that the McKinney Quarterback Club is accommodated if at all possible. Last year that good old dependable Santa Fe ran a McKinney Special to Paris when McKinney Hi Lions played and of COURSE WE BEAT — that 12th man was there—THE FANS. And it makes a lot of difference when several hundred fans are on hand, backing their team. Hope something can be done about the McKinney Special to Mt. Pleasant, Mr. Cotton Belt.

Mrs. Maude A. Childress of Cardsbad, New Mexico, is visiting with relatives in McKinney, Mrs. Bill Standifer and Miss Ellen Ruyle. Mrs. Childress attended the meeting of the McKinney Chapter Order Eastern Star on Monday evening. She expects to return home the later part of this week.

Mrs. Carolyn Mathews has resumed her duties as assistant city secretary in the tax office after a few days illness.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Smith of Nevada spent Friday afternoon here with his sister, Mrs. Jim Kimbriel in this city.

The two early frosts this week, in Collin County, will help bring the 1957 crop season to a close, two weeks earlier than anticipated. While sub-freezing temperatures were reported, major damage to pastures is not likely according to farmers and business people from different sections of the county, who are optimistic, rather than pessimistic over the situation.

The cotton, latest in the history of the county, will come to a head right away, being defoliated by the plant-killing icy coating. Heavy rainfall of the Spring and Summer delayed planting of cotton this year and some of the planting being as late as June and July. However the prospects were good for a half bale per acre in many sections of the county. The staple, late in being gathered and brought to county gins, would have been stripped mechanically in many areas had not Mother Nature stepped in and rushed up this process. Cotton dusting planes have not been uncommon in the county the past week or two.

With a warm-up due this week, the laborers will get into the fields to gather the remainder of the crop and move it to the gins. In and around McKinney there has been a shortage of labor, as many of the migrant laborers and their families have moved to West Texas. However, other sections of the county seem to have the labor situation well in hand.

County Farm Agent Virgil Dahlberg, in commenting upon the crop, said that he first predicted at least a half bale per acre for cotton, but is now rather skeptical, and believes the yield will be around one-third bale, taking the county as a whole. Since summer grasses were already dying out and winter grasses beginning to come through, he sees no real damage to pastures.

O. E. Carlisle, East Collin banker with the First National Bank at Farmersville, states that the cotton outlook is good, but damage to grains cannot be determined as yet. He said that the Spring rains ruined the onions there this year, but the cotton is due to make about a half bale, despite the small acreage in the area.

Manager Pat Simpson of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce says most of the merchants have been pleased with the Fall business, due of course to the late cotton harvest. Late-planted grains will also have a short harvest this year.

Dudley Roberson, cashier of the First National Bank at Anna, stated that cotton was later than usual, and in some inst...ces the bolls had not matured. However the farmers in North Collin are expecting to make a half bale per acre, or better. Thus far not much damage has been reported from the two frosts of the past week.

Don Bagwill of Plano Star Courier reports the situation in South Collin about the same. Late cotton, short grain harvests, but is of the opinion that the frost did little damage. Shrubs, trees and grass seem to be "none the worse off" in Plano he said. In fact, some farmers feels that a killing frost would be helpful in view of the large amount of foliage on cotton. Farmers are hopeful now that skies will clear enabling them to resume harvest of their fall crops.

Truett Smith, farmer, banker and civic leader at Wylie, in Southeast Collin is rather optimistic over the crop situation, where he sees benefits from the frosts. The farmers in that section of the county have been handicapped for about two weeks due to rain and cold weather, but "give us 30 days of clear weather" says Banker Smith, and "we will harvest a better crop than we inticipated." Up to Tuesday night, 1100 bales had been ginned at Wylie.

New Industrial Plant Located South Of Sherman

Construction is due to begin around December 1 on a branch plant of the Capitol Produce Corporation of Mechanicsburg, Pa., on a site two miles South of Sherman on Highway 75. The branch plant will employ 200 people at the start to produce aluminum windows and doors and the building and equipment will represent an investment of over $1,000,000.

Capitol Products Corp. is a Skyrocketing young company headed by a dynamic young industrialist named Eugene Gurkoff, 35, a former salesman. He bought the small Capitol Storm Window Co. in 1952. After changing the name to Capitol Products, Gurkoff arranged a merger and obtained control of long-established Read Standard Corporation, manufacturer of machinery for bakery and chemical industries.

Capitol Products has a top financial rating from Dun and Bradstreet. Sales for 1957 are estimated at more than $20,000,000.

Only a few key supervisory personnel will be moved to Sherman from the Pennsylvania headquarters. All other operating personnel will be employed in the Sherman area and trained for production jobs.

Directing the campaign to bring Capitol Products to Sherman were David H. Brown, attorney, and Joe Kaufmann, concrete manufacturer, with a hefty assist from about 100 Sherman leaders. Other important help came from the Texas Power and Light Co. and the Lone Star Gas Co. Brown is co-chairman of the chamber of commerce industrial committee. Kaufmann is chairman of the chamber industrial relations committee.

Gurkoff personally selected Sherman as the site of his plant from a list of 40 Texas cities. He said the expansion was necessary to supply Capitol products to the booming building business in the 10-state area centering in Texas.

United Fund Drive Within $3,000 Of Goal

Coffee drinkers in McKinney boosted the Greater McKinney United Fund campaign here Tuesday, when $192.55 was turned in to UF headquarters by local coffee bars. Co-chairmen Audie Turrentine and Royal Stephenson announce that 85 percent of the goal has been reached thus far, with $21,799.42 reports up to Wednesday.

The chairmen urge all workers to make their contacts as soon as possible so that the drive can been completed. With about $3,000 to go to reach this year's goal of $24,-860, it is expected that this amount will have been paid in or subscribed within the next day or two.

Persons who have not yet contributed are asked to send in their donations, or pledges to the UF office located in the Chamber of Commerce building.

It is to be remembered that the United Fund campaign takes the place of separate drives throughout the year for each of the ten agencies represented.

School Budget Is "Big Business"

By H. D. MOUZON

In previous articles regarding the operation of the McKinney Independent School District the term "Big Business' has been used on several occasions with reference to the tremendous amount of money, manpower and management required for a system the size of the local plant. In this week's article an effort will be made to get down to brass tacks, so to speak, and to better acquaint the public with two most important facts—where the money comes from and where it goes.

First, it is well to keep in mind that State laws govern what school money may be spent for and school officials must comply with these laws to the very letter. Salary money must, without a single exception, be spent for salaries; transportation money must go to provide transportation, etc. The district employs a Certified public Accountant who is given the authority to come into the school at any time at his own discretion and make an audit of the books. At the close of the school year he makes a complete audit of school funds and his report is published, thus assuring the public that school funds are being spent as intended.

Like any other well-regulated business, the school system here is operated on a budget,, carefully and skillfully drawn up each year by the president of the board of trustees, working in conjunction with Supt. Hailds Pearce. This budget is then presented to the school board for approval and, once approved, officials are expected to operate within its bounds. The budget for this year is 27 pages in length and is completely broken down into individual items, calls for expenditures in excess of $700,000.

Now, just where does all this money come from?

From the State of Texas, McKinney receives money from two main funds, the Per Capita or State Available and the Foundation Program or Gilmer-Aiken Fund. The State also provides money for transportation and the Federal Government pays the school on a per capita basis for children of government or defense plant employees enrolled in the district. In addition, local taxes provide part of the money required by the schools.

The amount of money received from the State from the Available or per capita fund is based on the school census roll. This is the reason for taking a census of school-age children in the distirct at the start of each calendar year.

Years ago, when the public school system in Texas was first set up, the state set up a large amount of land, the value of which is known as the permanent school fund. The income from this land, mostly from oil and gas leases, is known as the available fund. There is also a county available fund from which each school district in the county receives money each year. From the available fund McKinney is receiving approximately $255,200 for the 1957-58 school year. The County available fund will add about $800 to the total.

The Foundation Program is providing some $260,000 for use of the McKinney District this school year, the amount being determined on the basis of average daily attendance of pupils which ADA is also used arriving at the number of professional persons a district may employ. As an example, the average daily attendance for the 19567-57 school year was determined and this figure divided by 26 (the average teacher load provided for in the Gilmer-Aiken Fund) and the resulting figure represents the number of teachers and other professional personnel local schools would be permitted to employ for the 1957-58 year. This year McKinney has 118 such people.

McKinney receives approximately $100 per child per year from the Foundation Program. This figure is multiplied by the average daily attendance in the schools for last year and the result represents the amount of Foundation money to which the school is entitled. This year local schools are receiving about $260,000 from this source.

It is interesting to note here the great cost to the school when a boy or girl is absent for just one day for when this occurs it means that the school district will be penalized approximately 60c per day for 175 days of the next school year. That's why attendance is so vitally important under existing laws.

The State transportation fund provides the school with $16,700 this year and local taxes bring in about $169,000 more. Here, too, is an interesting item. Local taxes provide less than 22 per cent of the total money needed for the operation of schools each year. In other words, school taxes only $1.00 of every $5.00 that is spent.

Finally, the Federal Government pays the district about $73.00 per child in cases where parents are employed in defense plants or other government installations such as the local Veterans Administration Hospital. From this source McKinney receives approximately $23,-000.

Now, how is this money spent?

Teachers' salaries, the largest item in the local budget, add up to $549,449 annually; operation of the school plant (custodians' salaries, supplies, utilities, etc.) call for $38,364; maintenance of the plant requires some $10,000; auxiliary services (transportation, school nurse, etc.) calls for $20,-802; administrative (supervisors, principals and superintendent salaries; elect'on expense; expense of school tax office) $40,528, and set aside to retire bonds and pay interest on outstanding indebtedness $53,232. These total more than $712,000 for the current school year.

On August 31, 1957 the McKinney Independent School District had on hand a balance of $25,000 in operating funds and more than $40,000 in interest and sinking funds.

Since the end of the 1953-54 school year receipts from the Foundation Fund and the State Available Fund have shown a marked increase. In 1954 the system received $150,000 from the Foundation Fund. This amount increased to $218,175 the following year and is up to $260,000 this year. The state available has risen from $195,000 in 1954 to $208,000 the following year, $225,-000 in 1956, $234,000 in 1957 and wil reach $255,200 this school year.

The above figures reflect the efficient manner in which the McKinney Schools are operated by those charged with the responsibility of receiving and disbursing funds.

DRY MILK WILL CUT COST AND CALORIES.

Homemakers interested in trimming the food budget or keeping family figures in line, can rely on non-fat dry milk solids, or dry milk, to help, according to foods and nutritions specialists of the Texas Agreciultural Extension Service.

Dry milk is high in food value ...only the fat, vitamin A, and some of the amino acids contained in whole, fresh milk have been removed. This means fewer calories.

It is less expensive than whole, fresh milk, and can be stored without refrigeration in its dry form. After it has ben converted to liquid form, it should be refrigerated.

There are many ways to use this nutritious food in family meals. It can be shipped for use as a dessert topping, chilled and used as a beverage, converted into a delicious buttermilk, or used in any recipe that calls for milk.

To make buttermilk, convert the dry form to liquid and add ¼ cup of cultured buttermilk to each quart of liquid.

Use it in the dry form in preparing cakes, cookies, biscuits muffins, other quick breads and cereals. In such recipes mix the dried milk solids with the other dry ingredients and use water as the liquid.

Convert dry milk solids into liquid form for use in beverages, soups, sauces, custards and dishes such as scrambled eggs and creamed vegetables.

Use these porportions for mixing, or follow directions on package: ¼ cup non-fat dry milk solids plus 1 cup of water for each cup of skim milk desired. The package may call for less dry milk, but specialists suggest using the above proportions to improve flavor and increase food value.

BENSON ASKS HOG PRODUCERS TO AVOID HEAVY PRODUCTION IN 1958

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has asked hog producers to consider their production intentions for 1958 with special care in light of the present hog price situation.

Hog prices have been fairly good this year—running between $17 and $22 per hundred pounds through September. But what will happen to prices by fall of 1958 and the following year depends upon the number of pigs produced next spring. Too many sows farrowed early next year could mean a severe decline in price next fall.

Except for slight seasonal downturns, hog prices have been steadily resovering from a low point of around $10 per hundred pounds to which they fell in Dec. 1955. The gains of the past two years can be maintained only if supply is kept reasonably close to prospective demand.

The Secretary is concerned because conditions exist this fall which could stimulate production to the extent that prices would again go disastrously. And the market of bushels of corn that could be bought with the price of a hundred pounds of hogs has average slightly above 12 over many years. This Sept. it rose to a high of 16.6 bushels, and it is expected to run between 14 and 15 during the current breeding season. Such a situation almost invariably leads to increased farrowings.

Increased population should take care of a moderate increase in the 1958 spring pig crop, but growth in consumer demand for pork has been slow. The Department's market analysts warn that more-than-moderate increases could lead to a repitition of the unfavorable price situation of late 1955. They think that at least a 7 percent increase is in prospect, and for a gain of this size price declines might not be exceptionally large. For increases above 7 percent the risk of sharp declines would be greater.

PRUSSIC ACID DANGEROUS TO LIVESTOCK.

The time of the year is approaching when cattle owners should be warned that Johnson grass or surghum after a frost is sometimes extremely high in prussic acid content and is very dangerous to livestock.

When wilted by frost or drouth, certain chemical changes sometimes occur in the plant and it develops a content of prussic acid, or hydrocyanic acid, says Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian. The poison acts quickly, and can kill an animal within a short time after the damaged plant has been eaten.

Symptoms described by the veterinarian include an appearance of nervousness, difficult breathing, and difficulty in standing. Whether a poisoned animal can be saved depends upon how quickly a veterinarian can get to it. Treatment involves injecting antidotes directly into the blood stream.

Young plants will develop more prussic acid than those approaching maturity. The leaves will contain from thre to 25 times more acid than corresponding portions of the stalk in plants in the boot stage. The upper, younger leaves will contain more acid than the lower leaves.

Frosted or drouth stricken Johnson grass or sorghum should not be grazed until it is completely dry. If Johnson grass or sorghum is ready to cut before a frost, it may be cut during the first day after the frost and used for hay is completely cured before baling.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dodson spent the week-end in Seymore guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Syptak and daughter, Mary Ann. Their son, Ellis Lee Dodson, who attends Texas Tech at Lubbock, joined his parents at Seymore, Sunday.

SAFETY SAM SEZ: Safety is a year 'round job!

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS —of— THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

For the first time in several years, local landowners are expected to harvest a good crop of grass seeds this fall, according to Roy Post, technician with the Soil Conservation Service at McKinney. During the drought years our better forage grasses failed to develop normal seed. This year the plentiful moisture, especially the fall rains, has helped to mature good seed on King Ranch bluestem, native bluestem, Indiangrass and Sideoats grama.

"The harvest season for these grasses will start about the first of November," stated Post, "and livestock farmers should be making plans to gather what seed they will need for planting next spring. King Ranch bluestem especially is in good demand. It was very scarce last year and it is being planted by more livestock men each year."

"I don't know what I would have done without my King Ranch bluestem last fall and winter," stated Joe Clark of Melissa. "I would have been forced to sell off my cattle if they had not had the good grazing the K. R. bluestem furnished. I believe it is the best grass that we can plant for permament pasture," Clark said.

A. D. Graves of Melissa says he is well pleased with the way his K. R. bluestem has performed during dry years. He planted 10 acres of it in 1955, and this year it made a good amount of grazing, plus a seed crop which is nearly ready to harvest. Lewis Robinson of Celina has obtained very good grazing from 20 acres of K. R. growing on thin, rocky land. He has overseeded the grass with Button clover. Lewis Bradley, south of Weston, dependts on his 15 acres of K. R. for a good amount of grazing each year.

King Ranch bluestem can be harvested with any combine, but with some difficulty. Since there will always be some green seed heads and stems moving through the combine, certain adjustments must be made on the machine to insure a good job. The maturity of the seed must be checked closely around harvest time. It should be in the hard dough stage, or when half to two-thirds of the seed release from the seed head when given a slight pull with the fingers. The fill of seed can be checked by squeezing the base of the seed between the finger nails.

Any farmer who harvests only a few acres of K. R. or other bluestems to increase his planting, usually does not need a combine for harvesting. He can cut the mature grass and scatter the seed hay over the field he wants planted.

For a number of years Soil Conservation Districts over Texas have been sponsoring grass judging contests and grass exhibits. This is being done in order to help farm youth and adults become better informed on grass identification and grass management. Grass planting, as a land treatment practice, is being strongly encouraged by the Collin Soil Conservation District. This practice is not only profitable in connection with livestock farming, but it is a soil conserving and soil improving practice. A cover of grass is nature's safest protection from erosion.

Cotton Ginned To Date Reaches 11,261 Bales

Collin County's 23 gins reported a total of 11,261 bales of the 1957 cotton crop processed, according to Dennis Scott of the local Texas Employment Commission office. This figure represents an increase of 3,099 in the total reported a week ago.

Based on an anticipated crop of 38,500 bales this fall, approximately 29 per cent of the 1957 crop has been gathered and ginned.

The east part of the county is far ahead of other sections in ginnings with nine gins located at Blue Ridge, Farmersville (2), Josephine (2), Lavon, Nevada and Princeton reporting a total of 7,252 bales by towns are as follows:

Allen 184, Anna 143, Blue Ridge 781, Celina (2) 475, Farmersville (2) 1,136, Frisco (2) 771, Josephine (2) 1,203, Lavon 700, McKinney (3) 928, Melissa 387, Nevada 1,434, Plano 179, Princeton 923, Prosper (2) 852, Rhea's Mill 90, and Wylie 1,075.

Seeded Sorghum Hybrid Available For 1958 Crop

A white-seeded sorghum hybrid, showing a very favorable performance when compared with the other hybrids, has been developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Seed will be available in limited quantity for the 1958 crop.

This new hybrid, RS 630, is the first white-seeded hybrid released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. In 25 tests in nine states, it yielded 67 bushels per acre—higher than any of the other hybrids tested. It is a medium-early grain sorghum hybrid that matures in 90 to 100 days after planting. The head is well above the upper leaf and dries readily, thereby permitting harvesting soon after the grain is mature.

A recently released leaflet, L-362, gives detailed information on this new hybrid. It contains sections on parentage, yield record, production of certified seed and gives a complete description. This leaflet may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in Littlefield. It will be remembered that Mr. Steffey's wife passed away about three weeks ago. He is survived by several children and grandchildren.

Attending the obsequies from McKinney besides Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Steffey were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bob Young.

World Day Of Prayer Service Here Friday

A villager outside Khulna, East Pakistan, paddles down the river with his poultry and produce to be sold in the new co-operative center at town prices.

A young man in Samaria, the Near East, makes his choice of classes in which he can learn tailoring, or carpentry, mechanics, or perhaps the making of artificial teeth.

A 12-year-old boy in Kpolopele School, Liberia, writes with painfully formed letters, "The food you send gives me strong bones and keeps me from getting tired."

Separated by thousands of miles and strangers to each other, these three persons have, unknown even to themselves, been sharing a common experience. For throughout 1957 and particularly on World Community Day, November 1, their needs are the concern of ten million American church women.

On World Community Day, sponsored annually by United Church Women of the National Council of Churches, women will gather in their churches to pray for peace, to bring an offering in money to assist emerging peoples in East Pakistan, the Near East, and Africa, and to present then "Parcels for Peace."

"Parcels for Peace" will contain blankets and household linens, warm clothing, yardage of denim for mothers to make into work clothes for thier husbands and sons. These parcels prepared for forgotten children, homeless men and women in refugee camps in the Middle East and Southeast Asia, will be shipped overseas promptly from Church World Service centers in New York, Missouri, Indiana and California.

Out of the offerings of American women on World Community Day, new seeds and new plows, new cultivators and improved type of cattle will be purchased for shipment to Khulna.

These Pakistani farmers, learning to help themselves, will experiment with raising new fodder crops introduced from America; they will learn how to stock ponds with edible fish; how to inoculate their poultry against the ever-disastrous cholera. Their village women will have an outlet in the co-operative center for the fine weaving and embroidery they will learn to fashion for an outside market.

The need for self-help will be dramatized by teaching trades to teenagers in the ancient cities of Jericho and Jerusalem; by advancing loans for new business ventures in various centers in the Near East; by developing drainage systems so that low-lying villages in the Punjab need no longer be ravaged by rampaging streams.

When pumps to control floods are installed, large acreages of arable land can be returned to the production of food. This, in turn, should lead to a new freedom and dignity for some of the millions who for centuries have been existing in poverty and on near-starvation diets.

World Community Day will mark the culmination of many months of study on the part of church women of the problems of the emerging peoples of Asia and Africa. Through their new knowledge and through their belief in the right of every man for bread, freedom, and dignity, they will seek to open new opportunities for those who live in the lesser developed areas of the world.

"We recognize that if the emerging people are going to work with us as equals to build toward a peaceful world," says Mrs. J. Birdsall Calkins of Arlington, Virginia, National Chairman of the 1957 World Community Day Observance, "it is our Christian responsibility to have a part in the world-wide war against the poverty, ignorance, and disease that have kept them in bondage for so many centuries."

"The day is well named World Community Day," adds Esther W. Hymer of New York, director of Christian World Relations for United Church Women.

"Through our study, worship and action, through our wide-spread efforts involving so many Christian women, we will build toward a lasting world community."

"As we help Africans, for example, learn how to set up and operate co-operatives, we are really giving training in local self-government and Africa is the newest of the emerging countries which need our help and our respect in the climb toward freedom."

"As the physical life of peoples in Asia, Africa, and the Near East is lifted, a new spiritual fellowship must also leap barriers and penetrate curtains to help create a climate for peace."

On World Community Day American women who believe worship and action belong together will pray for that fellowship and that climate as they bring their gifts.

And in far away Pakistan and Samaria and Liberia men and women will struggle with new hope for bread, freedom, and dignity in the assurance that they are not forgotten.

McKinney will observe World Community Day on Friday, Nov. 1, 1957, at the First Presbyterian Church at 1:30 p.m.

Homecoming At Prosper Set For This Weekend

Homecoming for ex-students of the Prosper School will be held in two sections this year, a football game on Thursday night, October 31, and an ex-students meeting and reunion on Sunday afternoon, November 3.

Galen Bell, Ex-Students Association president, said that the Prosper Eagles will play Collinsville in a regular conference game on Thursday night.

On Sunday visitors will attend the church of their choice in the morning and will gather at the school gymnasium after church for a cold lunch and program. Following a business meeting a talk by a former Prosper student, E. L. Munday, will be heard. Munday is now a Dallas City detective.

All ex-students and former teachers of Prosper are invited and urged to be present.

Four employes of the Collin County National Bank are confined to their homes with flu. They are Mrs. Charles Carmen, Mrs. Lloyd Sauls, Miss Sherry McNeil and Mrs. Lena England.

LIONS WIN CONFERENCE GAME BY SCORE 32-0

By NORMAN SCOTT

The McKinney High Lions unleashed a mighty ground and aerial attack for a 32-0 victory over the Paris High Wildcats at Newsome Stadium Friday night in the conference opener for both elevens.

LIONS ROLL UP 380 YARDS.

The Lions riddled the Paris defense with 270 rushing and 110 passing in chalking up their convincing win and their defense bottled up the Wildcat attack which netted only 146 on the ground and none through the air.

McKINNEY TRAVELS 86 YDS FOR OPENING TOUCHDOWN.

The Lions received the opening kickoff and started to move from their 20 but a 15-yard illegal use of the hands penalty forced them to punt. McEntire punted only 4 yards into a stiff north breeze to the Lion 28. Paris moved to the McKinney 1 4 where the Lions took over on downs and proceeded to march 86 yards for their first touchdown. Bob Byrd, Kenneth Locke, and Charlie McEntire took care of the ground work most of the way with a 33-yard pass completion from quarterback Robert Joplin to end Don Wharton setting the Lions up on the Wildcat 28. They moved to the 10, and McEntire found a big hole inside left end for the final 10 steps with 11:56 remaining in the second period. McEntire converted and the Lions were on their way.

JOPLIN TO McENTIRE.

McKinney had their second score four minutes later when they took over on the Paris 30 after a poor punt by Dick Cunningham. On the first play from the 30, Joplin connected with McEntire in the right flat, and with the aid of resounding block by Wharton, the hustling Lion tri-captain galloped to the 5 before being overhauled. Locke picked up 4 at left tackle and Byrd blasted center for the marker. McEntire's kick was no good, and the half ended with the Lions leading 13-0.

LIONS SCORE THIRD TD.

The Lions received the second half kickoff and travelled for their third six-pointer. McEntire returned the kick from the 5 to the Lion 39 and they used 14 plays, all on the ground, with Byrd, Locke, McEntire, and C. W. Williams pounding the Wildcat line at a furious pace. Byrd climaxed the 61-yard drive when he blasted up the middle for the last 6 steps and his second score of the night. A bad snap back from center ruined Wharton's extra point try as the Lions held a comfortable 19-0 margin.

JOPLIN INTERCEPTS.

After receiving the ensuing kickoff, the Wildcats offered a mild threat but Joplin intercepted a Grady Reid pass and returned it to the Lion 22. From their 22, the Lions were on their way again, and featuring another Joplin to Wharton combination, good for 32, to the Paris 17, and a 12-yard scamper by McEntire to the 5, the Lions put their fourth touchdown on the scoreboard. From the 5, Williams needed only two carries at the left tackle spot for the score at the end of a 78-yard march. Wharton's point after try was wide to the left.

PIOR INTERCEPTS.

Ben Pior, the Lions' aggressive sophomore guard, intercepted a Wildcat aerial around the midfield stripe and returned it to the Paris 31 to set up the Lions' final touchdown. With Jerry Kruse engineering the McKinney second unit, the reserves clicked off the yardage in 10 plays with Kruse going over from 1-yard out on a quarter sneak. An 8-yard run by Kruse and a 12-yard aerial from Kruse to Williams were the key plays. McEntire added the conversion to end the scoring for the night.

DEFENSIVE STANDOUTS.

Wharton, the Lions. all-state end, turned in a very impressive defensive performance to go along with a good night offensively, and Cunningham looked like the best defensive performer for the Wildcats.

LIONS SOUND WARNING.

McKinney, who is considered by most observers as the district title favorite, sounded a warning to other district members with their impressive performance last night, and could be on their way.

The Lions will entertain the Sulphur Springs Wildcats at Newsome Stadium next Friday night.

Hospital Medical Records Important

By H. D. MOUZON

Although the keeping of records that preserve the history of medical and surgical treatment administered by a physician or surgeon dates back as far as the Stone Age and even been unearthed with the ruins of Nineveh and Babylon, the medical record department of today's hospital is a comparatively modern development.

Records of illnesses and amputations have been discovered chilled into the walls of caves, on clay tablets, on the walls of tombs and temples in Egypt and on parchment rolls of the Greek and Roman period.

Thus, from ancient times, the value of keeping some sort of a record of illness and injury and of the treatment administered in each case has been recognized as of great importance.

In order to get a better picture of the function of this department and of the tremendous amount of work required to keep records properly, a bit of statistical information should be enlightening. For example, there were 3,083 indoor patients admitted (exclusive of newborns) to City-County Hospital in McKinney during the year 1956. In addition, there were 414 live births for the year. There were 3,527 discharges for the year, including newborns and deaths and this means that the records department handled that many complete charts last year—one for each patient.

A medical record has its beginning at the time a patient is admitted to the hospital. The admitting clerk secures certain information from the patient or from the person who admtis the patient and this information is recorded on the admission or summary sheet which sheet goes then to the floor where the patient is to be admitted, whether it be to a ward, room, or obstetrical division.

Later, to this front sheet are added a doctor's order sheet, graphic sheet (temperature), progress sheet, history, physicial, operative report (if a surgical patient), laboratory report, X-ray report (if X-rays are made), nurses' notes, plus other special sheets as may be required fo cetain types of patients. These made up the chart.

This chart is kept on the floor, at the nurses' station, as long as the patient is in the hospital and gives the attending physician a clear picture of the progress of the patient's condition during his absence from the hospital. The physician dictates the history, physical findings, operative findings and progress record of the patient and this is transcribed by medical records personnel and the information placed on the proper chart. By referring to this chart the physician is guided in his treatment of the patient.

Still following the chart as it makes its way through the hospital—the nurse on the floor "signs out" the chart when a patient is discharged giving the time and mode of discharge and other pertinent information after the attending physician has given his "discharge order" and the chart is sent to the medical records department. Here the chart is checked for completeness to be certain all information and all sheets are present and in order, the physician's attention is called to any omissions, each diagnosis is coded and indexed and the chart is filed for a permanent recorded. Indexing includes the physician's index of information particularly interesting to him; the patient's index which meets individual hospital requirements, and the disease and operation index.

A central dictating system composed of a receiving unit in the record room, five telephones for dictation and two transcribers is maintained in the hospital. Telephones are located at convenient points in the hospital and are used by physicians to dictate medical records, etc. The 15 doctors on the staff of the McKinney hospital are thus enabled to dictate records direct, without requiring the services of a stenographer. Dictation is then transcribed an dplaced on the chart. The system has been in use here for three years.

The present record department is crowded into one room, 12x15 feet, with an off-set filing space. In the new County Hospital now under construction the department will be housed in a room 30x16 feet and will have adequate storage space for filing charts. In the present building, charts are filed in two different lockers besides the cabinets in the records room and older charts are stored in the basement. Records personnel will welcome their new quarters which will have modern metal furniture and plenty of room for efficient operation.

City-County medical record department is staffed at present with two regular employees and one part time employee. The estimated cost per chart has been set at a total of $4.00, half of which is for labor and half for supplies, etc.

Duties of a medical records librarian, in adition to those already mentioned, include the preparation of birth certificates for newborn babies; the making of a daily analysis of discharge patients; monthly reports for meetings of the medica lstaff; transcripts of case histories for insurance companies, and reports used by the administration, the medical staff, and board of governors and to state and national hospital organizations.

The medical record librarian is guided by a code of ethics similar to the oath of Hippocrates taken by the physician in that she must be most careful in the use of records and use judgement in revealing information. Each chart is a potential court case and, as such, must be complete in every detail. A document of such confidential nature as a medical record must be safeguarded from any unauthorized inspection. The librarian's job is of utmost importance.

The medical records department at City-County Hospital is in the capable hands of Mrs. Ruth Copeland.

Next week's article will have to do with the matter of hospital administration, the business office, etc.

An estimated 750,000 Texans served in World War II.

Humorist Speaks At Lions Club Ladies' Banquet

By FRANCIS STOGDILL

An evening filled with fun and laughter fittingly describes the Lions Club annual "Ladies Night" banquet held Thursday evening in the Fellowship Hall of the First Christian Church. Wives and sweethearts, widows of deceased members, and out-oftown guests were honorees for the happy event. Guest speaker for the occasion was the wellknown "barber turned humorist" Cayce Moore of Hearne, Texas.

President Leroy Richardson "kept things moving" as he presided over the interesting program. Rev. Tommy Watson gave the invocation following a delightful rendition of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" by the Lions, under the direction of Garner Jones and Bob Bryan. Club pianist, T. E. Wyatt, was accompanist.

Among the out-of-town guests introduced were Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Haggard of Plano; Mr. and Mrs. Richardson of Wylie and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Lowery of Denton. Lion Lowery is Deputy District Governor for this region. Lion Pat Simpson was presented as Zone Chairman.

Secretary Charles W. Graves introduced widows of deceased members, and each Lion introduced his guest.

Clever and original toasts were given by Lion Tommy Watson, "to the ladies," and Mrs. Julius Smith, "to the men."

Brief announcements concerning the approaching Hallowe'en Carnival, which the club will sponsor next Thursday night, October 31, were made by General Chairman Bob Clark, and Paul Worden, speaking for the "cake and candy" committee. Lionesses will donate these confections, with ladies whose names begin with "A" through "S" donating the cakes and the ones from "T" through "Z" furnishing the homemade candy.

The Honorable Tail-twister, Odell Bilderback" added his bit to the evening's frivolities.

Program Chairman James Stewart introduced the speaker of the evening.

Filling his talk with bits of folksy humor, Moore inserted several of his personal philosophies about life in between jokes. His subject "No Wonder You're Nervous" was cleverly dealt with, as he pointed out mostly the things we have to be thankful for. "Do not worry about the past" he said, "it is behind us." "We don't know about the future, so the thing we must deal with is the present."

"We all want recognition. Like the fellow they rode out of town on a rail, who said 'if it hadn't been for the honor I'd just as soon walked.'"

"Everybody is running around trying to catch up with the Joneses just about the time we catch 'em they re-finance," he declared.

He insisted that one of the requisites to lessen worry is keeping in good humor "if you want folks to like you," "good humor oils the friction we have in our dealings with humanity. You can tell the size of a person by the size of the thing it takes to make him mad."

He further stated that "Things are going a lot faster than they used to. Personal incomes are up 13 billion dolalrs, and we have more people in the $5,000-a-year bracket now. It's funny though. We manage to save everything but time. Do you know if you live to be 70 years old, you will have lived 3,660 weeks? If you take one week off, you have taken a week out of your life." He reviewed the rapid growth of Texas in recent years which promises to have more people than any other state by 1970. "We are going to become the empire state" he said.

Bringing his talk to a close the humorist said "folks like to see us do well, but they don't like to see us do too well."

Throughout his talk he kept his audience in an uproar, but his address contained much constructive thought, and was highly enjoyed by all present.

As the evening came to a close, the ladies were presented favors of electric food warmers. President Richardson expressed appreciation to the Gleaners Class of the church for serving the most delectable turkey dinner; to Dooley Florist Shop for attractive table decorations, and to all committeemen for their efforts in making this one of their most successful banquets.

LETTERS FROM . . .

THE PEOPLE

Dear Tom and Pete:

I hasten to congratulate you on your Home Towners column in Tuesdays paper.

Think you said a lot of truth in it. Now that we have voted the long sought bonds, for the long needed street paving and a few other things. Let us suggest that the powers that be get on the ball now and do something about getting the job done, and not be so long about finishing it that the first streets they improve will not be needing to be worked over before they get the last ones finished. Also let us trust that all the money will be used for what it was voted for and not get in the wrong place.

Let us hope the day is not far off before we can have something done to that so called useless Coliseum, for it is not doing any one good as it is. It cost more than $30,000 a long time ago when a dollar was worth a hundred cents. I thing it was first called a live stock pavilion. It has also been called a stock barn and hog pen. If it was improved and made decent it could be used for a lot of things to the benefit of the city at large. If it is not going to be used for anything else I would like to suggest that it be improved by the city as an up to date fire station as the place where they are now is so crowded that one could not cuss a cat without getting hair in their mouth.

JEFF SMITH.

Daily Courier-Gazette:

In the last few years the people have gotten into the habit of slapping their hands in the Sunday School class and making a lot of noise when the teacher gets through. I don't know who started that stuff. According to my way of thinking that is irreverence for the place of worship. It sounds like being at a picture show or a ball game. Jesus Christ said the heathen thinketh he will be heard for his much speaking. In other words, making a lot of noise.

Three amendments are to be voted on November 5. Nine are to be voted on November 1958.

The Press says the most important are the hiking of Legislators salaries to $7,500 and the issuance of $200,000,000 in bonds for water projects.

Will not the multi-million dollars damages to ungathered crops caused by heavy rains, dampen the enthusiasm for said amendments?

Plans Renewed To Develop New Park Site At Celina

Celina has reopened negotiations with the Santa Fe Railroad for lease of a tract of land to be used as a city park, Mayor C. V. Bray announced there recently.

Plans are for the city to develop a community park at the site, which at one time was jointly operated as a park by the railroad and the city.

Growing on the land are several large trees which were planted more than a quarter of century ago when the city and railroad jointly ageed to maintain the site as a park, Bray said.

With the coming of the depression in the 1930s, the city discontinued maintenance of the park, and in recent years the railroad has leased the ground to farm implement dealers who kept used equipment on the site. The site is immediately west of the depot.

Some speculation has also developed among community residents about developing a park immediately east of the school athletic field on the east side of town. City councilmen and members of the school board have taken the possibility under study.

The land is part of the Owsley farm, and was once deeded to a group organized to develop a city park. When the plans failed to materialize, the land reverted to the former owners. The land has often been used for annual Celina picnics.

Mrs. Etta Erwin of Melissa is reported in a critical condition in the City-County Hospital suffering from burns which she sustained at noon Sunday. She was rushed to the hospital by the Harris Emergency Ambulance.

Fort Worth Man Will Head Easter Seal Sale This Year

CARL J. ALDENHOVEN

Carl J. Aldenhoven, Fort Worth civic and business leader, will head this state's Easter Seal organization, the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults TSCCA for 1957-1958.

Elected to the Society's presidency at its state convention in Galveston, October 18-19, Aldenhoven succeeds Euclid Hudson, TSCCA president since 1955.

A native Texan, Aldenhoven says that his interest in crippled children and adults began early in his life and gives credit for this to his father, a Physician, who did much to help the crippled in a day when the present great national program of Easter Seal Societies did not exist.

Aldenhoven has been identified with the Easter Seal program in Texas for 15 years, having taken an active part in both local and statewide work. He is a three-term past president of the Crippled Children's Society of Fort Worth, immediate past vice president of TSCCA, and has served three years on the TSCCA board of directors.

The new TSCCA president is married and has two daughters.

One of Aldenhoven's primary interests is the scholarship fund he has established to train teachers of exceptional children, including both the physically and mentally handicapped, and to send handicapped children to schools which specialize in studies and training for the handicapped.

Among Aldenhoven's other civic interests are the Southwest Exposition and Livestock Show in Fort Worth, of which he is director; Opera Association of Fort Worth; Girls' Service League; Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation; United Fund; and March of Dimes.

He helped to organize and is a director of the Children's Museum in Fort Worth. He is a past president of the Exchange Club, Fort Worth; president of the Southwest Chevrolet Company in Fort Worth and is a breeder of Brangus Cattle.

His experience in the automotive field, especially in sales work, and his thorough knowledge of the Buick automobile, which he has handled successfully, equips him to capably fill his new position. He has a host of friends and former customers who will be pleased to know that he is back in McKinney.

Mr. McCarley and his wife reside on their farm, Route 1, Allen, where they built a beautiful new home about three years ago. They are members of the First Methodist Church of this city and support the major civic and social organizations of the community.

Resolutions Adopted At Farm Bureau County Convention

The Collin County Farm Bureau county convention was held on Tuesday night, October 22, 1957 at the Lone Star Gas auditorium. At this time the resolutions were passed.

J. T. Woodson, State District Director from Gober was present.

Gerald Furr of Rhea Mills is president of the Collin County Farm Bureau.

The following resolutions were adopted:

We wish to give special recognition to the newspapers in Collin County and to radio station KMAE for outstanding service in 1957. We have found these agencies to perform excellent Agriculture news service.

We commend Senator Ray Roberts and Representative W. T. Dungan for their excellent record of work and achievement during the past Legislative year.

We recommend that the Collin County Farm Bureau membership endorse the National Cotton Councils program. We believe that all Cotton producers in our County should request that their cotton gin participate in collecting the 20 cents per bale producer share in the council program. The recommended method of stamping on the gin ticket "National Cotton Council 20 cents" should be adopted by all gins in the county.

We recommend a state cotton program which calls for a freeze in county allotments for the 1958 and 1959 years, and a 2% state cotton reserve beginning in 1960.

We recommend that the State ASC office should delegate authority to County ASC officers to issue marketing cards on a contact basis in special cases where non-compliance by one or more farm owners prohibits operator from securing marketing cards and selling commodities produced on other land where compliance has been made.

We recommend that the county ASC offices place permanent new terrace, water way etcs lines on the aerial map and that these lines become permanently a part of the aerial map, until map is replaced with a new one.

The Farm Bureau's Farm to Market Road program has result in about 36,000 miles of construction and a purposed long range program of 100,000 miles — through the Colson-Brisce Act and other legislation the needed funds are available to carry on our purposed, program. We believe this program is very sound and continue to endorse it. We are opposed to the "Texas Research League" recommendations for the Texas Farm to Market Road Program; as their recommendations are directly opposed to our present program.

We believe that the producer should through referendum be given the choice to vote for high parity and reductions in acres if necessary and or reduction in parity and increase in acres.

(Taxes) Motion Made: That county delegates go to the State Convention uninstructed on Taxes. But keeping in mind that we prefer our present Farm Bureau Tax Status which calls for additional taxes on natural resources if additional taxes are needed.

Next week will mark the opening of the Harris Funeral Service Insurance Drive-in office, located on the new Harris parking lot, corner of Louisiana and Church Streets. This office is the first of its kind known..

Ramsey Harris, president of the insurance company, and his mother, Mrs. C. C. Harris, secretary-treasurer, invite the general public to call by the new office next week and receive free favors. 1958 desk calendars will be given to adults, with balloons and gum for the kiddies. Announcement of the opening appears in the Daily Courier-Gazette today.

The modern new air-conditioned office was built as a convenience for policyholders preferring to pay premiums from their cars, or for persons wishing to inquire about the low rates offered by the company. It has many advantages as a time saver, eliminates parking problems, exposure to bad weather, and there is no walking. Just drive up to the window and pay your insurance premium without getting out of your car.

Mr. Harris states that this new building will serve as a sub-office for the company, the main office being maintained in the Harris Funeral Home building, across the street from the parking lot.

The fireproof structure of concrete tile and brick wainscoating, has stucco trim and carries the color scheme of the Funeral Home building—green, ivory and brown. In back of the building are modern rest rooms, available to friends parking on the lot for funeral services in the chapel. An outside fountain provides ice water, another courtesy of Harris Funeral Home.

Mrs. Harris and Ramsey, ever seeking new ideas to better serve their friends and patrons, offer this new drive-in service, and want to thank all of their policyholders for the success of the company, which was organized in 1942.

Sears' Christmas Catalog Distributed

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has begun distribution of its 1957 Christmas Gift Catalog, Leon Hand, local manager, said today.

The catalog lists more than 30,000 gift items for the entire family and has a record number of pages appearing in four colors.

Ninety pages of the new Sears catalog are devoted to toys.

Again this Christmas, Sears lists many new electric and electronic battery-powered toys. Among the new powered-playthings are a 3-speed children's juke box, an electronic walkie-talkie set and a space ship which maneuvers by whistled commands.

Other new toys include a toy ice cream machine, a child's portable typewriter, a giant mobile atomic cannon and a complete line of electric trains.

Christmas gifts from all over the world are featured in the new Sears catalog, Mr. Hand said. Among the many imported items are jewel boxes from the orient, imported candies and cheese from Europe and an Italian coffee-maker and coffee.

A special selection of books for family reading, as suggested by the American Library Association, is also displayed in the new catalog.

Other new and unusual items in the Sears Christmas book include an electric shoe polisher, an electric can opener and a lightweight (30 lb.) 17-inch screen portable television set of fiberglass.

Sears 1957 Christmas gift catalog will be distributed to approximately eight million families in the United States, the company said.

Tom Kerby has been moved to his home at Lucas from the City-County Hospital where he has been a patient for several days.

If you have not looked about over the entire City of McKinney perhaps you have not noticed how fast McKinney is really growing. We will not have a complete and official count of the population until 1960, but the 1950 census showed us a population of 10,560. A city directory was published in October of 1956 and had listed 13,560 names, this may have missed a few but not many. Another way to estimate population is to multiply the number of water meters in use by 3.9 person per meter; with 4,000 water meters in use in McKinney this would give us an approximate 15,600 but some of these users are outside the City limits.

Our growth can also be shown by the new building going on, since Jan. 1, 1957 building permits for 66 new residences have been issued at a total building cost of $541,100.00 In addition to this 2 new business places have been issued permits for a cost of $7,000, including the new County hospital under construction for which a permit was issued for 1,192,096. New buildings in the city for the first nine months of the year have amounted to $1,740,196.00. This amount does not include repairs and additions to existing buildings, and it is estimated the building permits for the City will exceed $2,000,000 by the end of 1957.

Two new businesses have opened in the last few days. We are always glad to have new business and it is a peculiar thing but new business places in a community hardly ever take business from the existing establishments but bring additional trade to the community about equal to their volume. The new businesses are Janettes Fashions, a new ladies wear shop located on the East side of the square next to Whites Jewelry store. The other is a new Cafe opened by Clarence Majors in the location formerly occupied by Johnnies Cafe on South Tenn. Street.

With the work to start soon on the Veterans Hospital for a total of $2,000,000.00 repairs and construction; the new County Hospital under construction; the new High School to be started soon; work nearing completion on the new expressway to Dallas; and the new street repairs for City streets to start soon we are in the midst of a major building era we have never known before.

With our hand on the throttle; our ear to the ground; our foot in the road; and our nose on the grindstone; how can we keep our eye on the ball.

Annette Gill, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Gill, is confined to her home with illness. Her host of Little friends wish for her speedy recovery.
